

A vector field plot on a color gradient background (blue to yellow). Black arrows represent the vector field, and red dots mark specific points along the star's edges. The star is white with a black outline. The vector field appears to be a gradient of a scalar field, with arrows pointing away from the star's center. The red dots are located at the vertices and along the edges of the star.

